REO Brothers from Tacloban

Widely acknowledged as the Philippines finest Beatle tribute band, the REO Brothers has astonished the music world with their phenomenal success shortly after breaking into Manila’s music scene when their hometown of Tacloban was ravaged by Typhoon Yolanda (International name: Haiyan) in November 2013. As 5 real siblings performing separate instruments, the band is a unique phenomenon. That, in itself, has become an attraction to concertgoers!

From the Archives: Chinese Likenesses from San Francisco Portrait Studios

The California Historical Society holds a number of portraits of Chinese sitters at San Francisco photography galleries taken between the 1860s and the 1890s. Typically showing ordinary men staring directly into the lens, or women looking slightly off-camera, they provide a striking contrast to the many troubling images of Chinese people that were produced in early California.

New Year in the Western and Japanese calendars.

The California Aiseki Kai presents its 33rd annual show featuring outstanding examples of suiseki and other viewing stones.

Practiced in Asia for centuries and gaining popularity around the world, the art of viewing stones invites contemplation of the subtle, often fanciful forms that have been shaped by nature, the elements, and time.

The show is open 10 a.m.–5 p.m., Dec. 26 through 30, in the Ahmanson Classroom in the Brody Botanical Center. Free with general admission to the Huntington.

Previously:

Visited the JANM to view the exhibit Sutra and Bible. I thought this was one of their better efforts. Examined the effect of Buddhism, Shinto, and Christianity in the camps. While browsing in the library found a VHS tape on jazz in Japan that I got watch there.

Watched the UCLA webinar

Went on a trip and made a stop at Manzanar to see what has been added since my last visit pre-Covid.

<https://www.nps.gov/manz/index.htm>

Last time I was there I noticed that the gardens were starting to be excavated. At the visitor center they said they may try to restore one of them. I also so that they are restoring some of the orchards. A grove is carefully fenced off and they said they were doing some genetic research on the trees so they can restore them.

Also visited the grounds of the former orphanage that have been cleared.

I learned this time that you can drive to the reservoir, about a mile from the cemetery. The visitor center has a pamphlet that translates the resentful graffiti embedded in the concrete. I'll have to check that out next time.

I've been on the road. I visited the Minidoka National Historic Site.

Even though the visitor center is closed for the season, there is still a lot to see there, with a history trail including a number of informative educational exhibits.

I also stopped at the Topaz Museum in Delta Utah. This is a very impressive museum, especially since it apparently is a community project, not supported by the Federal government. You can drive out to the site of the camp, where there is a memorial, but there isn't too much left of the camp. Some signs have been put up to indicate where buildings were.

At the Evergreen Aviation and Space Museum in McMinnville, OR in one corner there was a nice poster exhibit on the evacuation of Japanese Americans from Oregon.

Over at the Estrella Aviation Museum in Paso Robles they have one of the posters ordering evacuation of Japanese Americans from the West Coast, but it had no context. Documentary about African American journalist who traces the tragic fate of her Japanese American grandfather

- A Vanished Dream: Wartime Story of My Japanese Grandfather | NHK WORLD#JAPAN On Demand

Decided to play it safe and I did not attend the New Year events in Little Tokyo.

Watched recorded Kotohajime:

<https://www.jaccc.org/kotohajime-2022>

Finished the 4 part NHK documentary on Japanese director Hayao Miyazaki:

10 Years with Hayao Miyazaki | NHK WORLD-JAPAN On Demand

Local JACL had the following recommendation:

Grateful Crane presents: "Da Grapevine" A virtual reading of Soji Kashiwagi's comedic play about gossip in the Japanese American

2022 - 23rd Annual Japanese New Year's Oshogatsu Festival-Little Tokyo (2 Locations, 2 Days) Entertainment, Food Booths, Taiko, Beer (Updates!) | Japanese-City.com

And from Poston Preservation:

We were fortunate to be a part of the France 24 broadcast on December 12 featuring a segment on Pearl Harbor and the JA Incarceration experience. To view go to the link below:

Read about Dr Wu in the Washington Post article:

Chien-Shiung Wu, trailblazing woman in nuclear physics, was my grandmother. I wish I knew more about her private universe. - The Washington Post

While walking the eastern half Whittier Greenway, I found on one of the informational boards recognition of the injustices to Native Americans who lived in the area that became Whittier and to Japanese Americans who were relocated during WWII.

A recording of the racial profiling webinar described below is now available on Youtube plus a related webinar:

Watched
