KCLS Author Voices: Kiku Hughes [recording]

Saturday, May 17, 2-3:30 pm PT

IN-PERSON or VIRTUAL

Join King County Library System and Densho at the Bellevue Library (or virtually!) for a conversation with Kiku Hughes, author of Displacement. Get an insight on the historical and personal impact that the WWII Japanese American incarceration camps have had, and the intergenerational issues they've left behind.

Watch the recording at:

I watched the original webinar back in May and I finally got around to reading my digital version of the graphic novel displacement. As the author acknowledges, the time travel structure is inspired by Octavia Butler. I thought it is one of the better fictionalized accounts of life in the camps.

Asian American, Native Hawaiian, and Pacific Islander Heritage Month recognizes and celebrates the culture, contributions, and heritage of Asian Americans

Asian American, Native Hawaiian, and Pacific Islander Heritage Month recognizes and celebrates the culture, contributions, and heritage of Asian Americans and Pacific Islander Americans. President Jimmy Carter signed a joint resolution declaring May 4-10, 1979 as the first Asian Pacific Heritage Week. In 1990, President George H. W. Bush signed an extension changing Asian Pacific Heritage Week to a month-long observance. In 2024, President Joseph Robinette Biden, Jr changed the name to Asian American, Native Hawaiian, and Pacific Islander Heritage Month.

SMITHSONIAN’S NATIONAL CONVERSATION ON RACE

Friday, March 28

8:30 a.m.–12:30 p.m. PDT

FREE

The Democracy Center is honored to host the Smithsonian's National Conversation on Race. Building on last year's discussions at the intersection of race at issues of wealth, health, and the arts, this year's dialogue examines the urgent contemporary forces shaping these issues. With a focus on youth empowerment and the role of creative practice in fostering equitable recovery from natural disasters, this gathering will illuminate pathways toward systemic change.

Note that many events are being cancelled or rescheduled due to the wildfires and threat of more wildfires due to predicted increased wind events this week. For example, I received an email stating:

“Due to the wildfires resulting in a significant impact on air quality and the strain on local resources, we have made the decision to postpone all of the Los Angeles Firecracker Run/Walk, Bike, Kiddie & Dog events that were originally scheduled for February 1 & 2, 2025.”

Many museums and gardens are closed, especially in the Pasadena and Arcadia areas. The last I checked the South Coast Botanic Garden is open. This is a major tragedy for the Los Angeles area and I hope it doesn't spread to OC and Ventura.

Note that the Huntington Library and Gardens are closed through Friday, and I would not plan on visiting during the weekend. I think there was supposed to be a Japanese New Year celebration on Sunday.

Emergence: Art from Life is singular among PST ART exhibitions for its presentation of living biological artworks and projects created in collaboration with a global cohort of synthetic biologists and medical researchers. Visitors will encounter human bones grown from synthetic mother-of-pearl; objects dyed with bioengineered indigo pigment; and living, microscopic human tear glands that cry. These works invite us to consider what it means to be human now: our aspirations, follies, entanglements, and impacts on symbiotic life forms, each other, and the planet.

Tulips in Harmony

Season Opening Concert

Sunday, November 23 | 4:00 PM

We are delighted to invite you to our Season Opening Concert, presented by Tulips in Harmony, a nonprofit organization founded after the 2011 Great East Japan Earthquake to promote community welfare and cultural exchange through music and the arts.

This year's concert brings together four completely different genres of music on one stage — a rare opportunity to enjoy a wide spectrum of artistic expression in a single evening.

Highlights

"The Nutcracker" Collaboration

A special performance featuring a Ballet Company, taught in Japanese, dancing to live music by talented local musicians.

String Quartet Performance

Enjoy both beloved classical favorites and new original works performed by a skilled string quartet.

Young Musical Prodigies: Landon & Aaron

Representing the Yamaha Music School of South Bay Torrance, these two remarkable 13-year-old composers and pianists will amaze you.

- Landon: Two-time world champion in the Yamaha Junior Original Concert global program (2022 & 2023).

- Aaron: Set to perform on a Korea tour next year.

Both are bright examples of the next generation of outstanding local musicians.

Traditional Japanese Dance & Music

A performance by new members of the Matsutoyo-kai, featuring traditional Japanese dance, singing, and shamisen.

Experience the charm of Japanese music from around the same era as The Nutcracker—a cultural bridge between East and West.

Opening Reception: Package Craft – From Candy Box to Sculpture (11-21-2025)

This exhibition features “Package Craft,” a playful art form that transforms a single empty box into 3D figures — from heroes and animals to even Buddhist statues. Each work follows strict rules: only one box, almost zero waste, and every printed word must stay readable. You’ll also get to see the original box layouts and fun character animations.

At the opening, enjoy a talk and live demo by Kazuma Takahashi from Japan, plus Japanese sweets, sake, and freshly brewed coffee. Admission is free — RSVP recommended!

Onigiri: A Cultural Encounter

by Dr. Gavin H. Whitelaw

7-8:15PM Thursday, November 13

Webinar

Admission FREE, RSVP REQUIRED

(<https://us02web.zoom.us/j/89546257722?pwd=bhGLNTEaiGYdAu3OCCFqsWaBOybmak.1>)

We are excited to team up with TABLE FOR TWO USA (TFT) once again to support their 11th annual Onigiri Action campaign, an autumn social good initiative that connects the simple act of taking a photo with helping to feed schoolchildren in need. Every photo of an onigiri (Japanese rice ball) posted to the campaign website or on social media with #OnigiriAction between October 7 and November 15, 2025, helps provide five school meals to children in need around the world.

As part of this initiative, we are pleased to invite you to an online lecture by Dr. Gavin H. Whitelaw, sociocultural anthropologist and Executive Director of Harvard's Reischauer Institute of Japanese Studies. Drawing on his research and firsthand experiences in Japan, Dr. Whitelaw will discuss how the onigiri—a staple of Japanese convenience stores (konbini)—reflects the country's evolving social and cultural landscape. His talk will also examine the globalization of Japanese cuisine, as well as the challenges and tensions embodied in Japan's most iconic fast food.

Japanese Architects Talk Series 5: Suki Microcosm of Tastes

This talk series is organized around five concepts unique to Japan. Renowned Japanese architects and scholars will speak about their ideas on architecture and their works.

The fifth session, with lecturers Reiji Izumi (Tea master and researcher) & Kunio Kirisako (Architectural historian), moderated by Hitoshi Abe (Professor of architecture), addresses the concept of (SUKI). SUKI refers to the refined atmosphere of the tea ceremony as it is expressed in the nuanced relationship of its art, architecture, and appreciation of beauty.

Don Hata, Historian, Artist Poet and Author to speak in recognition of Asian Pacific American Heritage Month

May 17, 1:30PM

Don Hata will talk about the incarceration of Japanese Americans during World War II. Hata, is a retired emeritus professor of history at California State University, where he taught US History, Asian History and Asian American History. He is a native of Los Angeles. At the age of three years old, he and his family was imprisoned in Gila River AZ.

May is Asian American Pacific Islander Heritage Month and it provides an opportunity to learn about the history and contributions of Asian American communities including the Japanese American concentration camps of WWII. Understand more about this important topic from someone who experienced it firsthand. Don's poems and watercolor paintings and memories reflect the harsh realities he faced in the concentration camps.

Temporary Detention: A New Multimedia Project About "Assembly Centers"

Japanese American National Museum

100 North Central Avenue

Los Angeles, CA 90012

Commemorate Asian American, Native Hawaiian, and Pacific Islander Heritage Month with the launch of the new multimedia project, Temporary Detention: A Guide to the Forced "Assembly Centers." The website provides a past-and-present look at the fifteen temporary detention centers and the Owens Valley "Reception Center" operated by the US Army's Western Civil Control Administration during World War II. Euphemistically called "Assembly Centers" these hastily-built detention centers imprisoned approximately 92,000 Americans of Japanese ancestry as the ten concentration camps were being built.

Three Views of Manzanar: Ansel Adams, Dorothea Lange and Toyo Miyatake

Season 4 Episode 2

Despite the trauma of their incarceration during World War II, Japanese Americans built new lives while detained at concentration camps like Manzanar. They played baseball, planted gardens and made the honor roll. Three renowned photographers captured these scenes: outsiders Dorothea Lange and Ansel Adams and incarcerated Tōyō Miyatake who boldly smuggled in a camera lens to document life from within the camp. All three trained their lenses on small yet profound moments of dignity and domesticity, documenting resilience in the face of civil injustice. This episode compares and contrasts their approaches and the politics encoded in their work. It also follows the work of Paul Kitagaki, Jr., an award-winning photographer, who is trying to capture the images and voices of those incarcerated decades after that fateful moment in time.

Film Screening and Q&A: "Snow in Midsummer"

Snow in Midsummer is set in Kuala Lumpur at two different periods of time: first on May 13, 1969, and then, on May 13, 2018; it revolves around Ah Eng, a young woman, and her mother who lose contact with the father and brother of the first amid political riots, in the first part, and, in a second chapter, the remembrance of this moment 49 years later.

Opening Reception for "PATH TO THE PERFECT CUP: Coffee Culture in Japan"

There are various ways to brew coffee. Perhaps the most popular brewing tool is the dripper, and the best-known examples are produced by companies in Japan. But why, if Japan is traditionally associated with tea, is this the case? It can be argued that Japan's tea culture is the foundation upon which Japanese coffee culture flourished to its current form.

This exhibition, organized in collaboration with Kurasu, explores the effects that coffee has had on Japan and, simultaneously, the extraordinary contributions that Japan has made to the global coffee community.

In the Tune of Art: 15-String Bass & Trumpet

Why not music inspired by art while surrounded by art? In this new series, "In the Tune of Art," we select music that matches the theme and artwork of the current exhibition and invite you to enjoy the melody in that environment. For the second session, we will be presenting an innovative 15-string electric bass to accompany the exhibition "ETHEREAL: Interpretations of the Ryūgūjō Myth". LA-based musician Kai Kurosawa will play his invention. He will also collaborate with trumpet player Dan Rosenboom. Admission is free, registration is required.

JapanCraft21 to hold live Zoom Presentation of "Traditional Icons of Japanese Culture" on Friday, Jan. 24 at 5PM, Pacific Standard Time

Announcing a live ZOOM presentation by JapanCraft21, Steve Beimel: Traditional Icons of Japanese Culture

Japan is rich in time-honored cultural icons, each with a story that opens doors to a greater understanding of the culture, seen in fine craftsmanship from wood, stone, ceramics, urushi lacquer, metal, paper, textiles, and bamboo.

Though historically and culturally significant, these ubiquitous icons are either entirely unknown to Westerners or considered mere forms of trivia. Who was the "Laughing Buddha," the standing raccoon dog wearing a hat, the red-faced man with the long nose, the pure young girl of the Noh theater mask, the fierce-looking face appearing on temple rooves? Join us for a fascinating look at Japan through 40 of its most commonly seen icons.

Once again:

Good Time to stay home if you can and avoid the bad air quality as required. Stay safe and watch out for curfews and evacuation orders.

Do something virtual if you can get on the internet.

We have had a brief respite in some areas for the time being but the situation may quickly change.

Another postponed event:

“Due to concerns regarding the ongoing wildfires and unpredictable weather conditions affecting Los Angeles, the screening of The Toll of the Sea, originally scheduled for January 16th at 6:00 pm, is postponed. This decision was made with the safety and well-being of our attendees, staff, and the community as our highest priority.

We are currently working to reschedule the event and we will announce the new date as soon as possible. Please check your email or visit camla.org/upcoming-events for event-related updates. If you have any immediate questions, feel free to contact us at info@camla.org.

We appreciate your understanding and patience as we navigate this challenging situation. Our thoughts are with those impacted by the wildfires, and we encourage everyone to stay safe and informed during this time.

Thank you for your continued support, and we look forward to hosting Unmasking: The Toll of the Sea on a later date.

The Monterey Park Lunar New Year Festival was scheduled for this weekend:

<https://www.montereypark.ca.gov/669/Lunar-New-Year-Festival>

but check to see if it is going to be rescheduled.

Likewise the Rancho Cucamonga Lunar Festival is also scheduled for this weekend:

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/3rd-annual-2025-rancho-cucamonga-lunar-festival-jan-18-19-tickets-912889616417>

Join the Chinese American Museum on Thursday, January 16th at 6:00 pm at the historic Pico House (424 N. Main St., Los Angeles, CA 90012) for a special, colorized screening of The Toll of the Sea (1922). The film, directed by Chester M. Franklin and produced by Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation, features Anna May Wong at just 17 years old in her first leading role. Despite being a silent film, Wong's emotive and expressive nature has led many to consider The Toll of the Sea as her breakout role in the film industry.

Featured alongside the film screening will be an exclusive commentary and a post-screening discussion courtesy of Anna Wong, niece of Hollywood star Anna May Wong, and Katie Gee Salisbury, author of Not Your China Doll.

RSVP today at camla.org/thetoll to join us in watching Anna May Wong shine in her first leading role and explore her life and enduring legacy through insightful conversations with experts on the iconic figure. “

Where I went the past weeks and may have heard of at the last minute (and before, since webinars are often still available online):

Happy New Year!

I did look up why Japanese are about the only east Asians who don't celebrate lunar new year. They did celebrate a Japanese lunar calendar new year until 1873 when they switched to the January 1 as part of the mad rush to appear civilized to Westerners.

Japanese peasants had to wait until 1875 to get last names as part of another modernization reform.

These are probably some of the least harmful changes that were made as part of the Meiji Restoration.

Previously:

Forgot to watch the Japanese/Chinese garden webinar. Oh Well.

If you want to do your own comparison, you can visit the Chinese Garden at the Huntington, and the Storrier Stearns Garden not too far away in Pasadena. The Japanese Garden at the Huntington, is on the whimsical side, although I like it very much.

For a very brief summary, see

<https://www.huntington.org/sites/default/files/volunteer-academy/fgc9chinjapcomp.pdf>

The next nearest Chinese Garden is the Chinese Cultural Garden in San Jose.

Didn't miss going out to see the Tuna Canyon presentation at the Storrier Stearns Japanese Garden in Pasadena. My photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/StorrierStearns2025/index.html>

Motivated me to go see the Tuna Canyon marker:

Nothing left of the camp, just an abandoned golf course.

Missed Tam Tran but there will be more opportunities in 2026. See above.

Went to Tulips in Harmony. Performances of Western and Japanese music and dance. Was actually pretty good. My photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/TulipsinHarmony2025/index.html>

Watched the online webinar on onigiri listed above

Went to see the Yokai exhibit at the Japan Foundation. The exhibit just closed.

Photos:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Yokai2025/index.html>

On Zoom watched the

Greater Los Angeles JACL presents

“Japanese American Actors”

On Zoom watched the commemoration of the Chinatown Massacre of 1871 at CAMLA

Having some walking problems due to knee problems so at least drove my car up to the local No Kings protest in Westchester and waved at the protestors. Compared to the previous one I attended, the crowd was much more lively and intense and the age spread was wider. Some very interesting signs. Followed the guidance not to take any pictures.

Visited the Minneapolis Institute of Art which has a significant Asian art collection. My photos at

Minneapolis Institute of Art

Also Asian Art collection at Amarillo:

Amarillo Museum of Art

I made it to the Gardena Valley JCI Car Show on Saturday.

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/GardenaCarShow2025/index.html>

The following day I caught the tail end of the JACCC Plaza Festival and then the Nisei Week Closing Ceremonies and street ondo.

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Ondo2025/index.html>

Sunday I went to the Nisei Week Parade:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/NiseiWeekParade2025/index.html>

and before that I went up to the Cruising J-Town exhibit:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/CruisingJTown2025/index.html>

Made it to the Gardena Obon

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/GardenaObon2025/index.html>

Attended:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Zenshuji2025/index.html>

Higashi Obon

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Higashi2025/index.html>

Orange County Obon

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/OCBCObon2025/index.html>

I went to the Terra Cotta Warriors exhibit at the Bowers Museum:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Bowers2025/index.html>

I made it to the Yamagata Maiko performance in Little Tokyo

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Maiko2025/index.html>

Had big plans to go to the Sozenji Obon and the Lotus Festival but wasn't feeling well plus bad planning kept me home. Did finish reading:

The Hunt for Tokyo Rose

by Russell Warren Howe

We have come full circle and a lot of the injustices Iva Toguri suffered are being repeated.

I attended the Senshin Obon. I wanted to get home before it got too late so I missed the taiko performance this year. My photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Senshin2025/index.html>

I made it to the Gardena Valley JCI festival in time to catch the koto but missed the taiko. My photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/GardenaJCIMatsuri2025/index.html>

From there I made it to the LB Japanese Community Center festival.

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/LBFestival2025/index.html>

The next day I drove all the into the San Fernando Valley for their obon:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/SFVObon2025/index.html>

I attended the Sun Valley Obon on Saturday. Stayed for the first part of the ondo and taiko performance. My Photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/SunValley2025/index.html>

I made a quick visit to the Venice Japanese Community Center Natsu Matsuri to grab some food (udon and kalbi) and check out their cultural exhibits. They have some talented people!

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/VJCC2025/index.html>

A little over 2/3 of the way through The Hunt for Tokyo Rose by Russell Warren Howe. Kind of appropriate for what is happening these days.

On Zoom watched the Irei no Hi. The guest speaker couldn't make it so they screened 2 very moving films, one animated. Also tuned into the following church service which screened interviews with survivors. With all the wars going, reminders of the consequences for those caught in between.

I watched:

The Promise and Peril of Being Chinese in America: A Conversation with Michael Luo and Lisa See

Why did the Chinese come to America? What dreams were they pursuing? Why did their initial welcome turn into horrific violence? Why does this history matter today?

Hear Lisa See and Michael Luo address these and other vital questions in the 1871 Memorial Project's virtual discussion of Luo's book, "Strangers in the Land: Exclusion, Belonging, and the Epic Story of the Chinese in America."

Relevant to what is happening today. Learned the current protests are occurring at the site of the 1871 mass lynching.

<https://chcp.org/event-6199129>

Attended the Norwalk festival described above. My photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Norwalk2025/index.html>

I went to the Lennox Library to see a 40 minute performance of Patsy by the East West Players:

"Patsy," a play about Patsy Takemoto Mink, the first woman of color in Congress, written by Alison Minami, directed by John Miyazaki, 4-5 pm at Lennox Library, 4359 Lennox Blvd, Lennox. Cast: Chloe Madrigal, Pauline Yasuda, Evelyn Wu-Coffey, William Bremer, Andrew Brown, Stephen Hacı. Info:

<https://www.eastwestplayers.org/patsy-tour>

The audience was mainly young children, but I found it fascinating and I highly recommend it if it comes your way.

Attended the

2025 60th Anniversary Matsutoyo Kai Japanese Folk Music & Dance Recital

The Japanese folk music group, Matsutoyo Kai, is presenting a music and dance program at the Ken Nakaoka Community Center on Sunday, June 1, 2025, from 12:00 pm. The event will celebrate the 60th anniversary of the group and will present a student recital with Japanese dancing, and feature a special guest minbu dance artist from Japan, Madame Kahou Satokaze, Headmaster of Satokaze Kai.

Stayed the whole 2 ½ hours and enjoyed all of it.

Went to the LA County Fair.

This ties in with the Assembly Center presentation I went to the a weekend ago or so (see below). From Wikipedia:

The Temporary Detention Camp for Japanese Americans / Pomona Assembly Center is one of the places Japanese Americans were held during World War II. The Pomona Assembly Center was designated a California Historic Landmark (No. 934.04) on May 13, 1980. The Pomona Assembly Center is located in what is now called the Fairplex in Pomona, California in Los Angeles County. The Pomona Assembly Center was called Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in 1942.

For more information check out the Densho entry at

<https://densho.org/catalyst/photo-essay-fairground-detention-facilities/>

Includes photos.

This marker doesn't show up on google maps, but did find:

The plaque is situated at a drop-off area north of the intersection of Canyon Way and West McKinley Avenue.

Longitude and latitude:

34°04'52.8"N 117°45'59.2"W

Or 34.081322, -117.766456

Finally found it on Google Maps. Will have to look for it next time I go, but it isn't in an area where I normally visit.

Listened to a webinar with Kiku Hughes at the King County Library:

Author Voices: Kiku Hughes

She wrote the graphic novel "Displacement" (available as hardcopy or ebook) about time traveling to the Japanese American community before and during WWII. Need to read it.

Attended the Okinawan performances at the Armstrong Theatre in Torrance.

I did go out to attend the

Temporary Detention: A New Multimedia Project About "Assembly Centers"

Japanese American National Museum

and the ikebana exhibit at the JACCC Dozaki gallery

my photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/NihonMachi2025/index.html>

I didn't get out but online I caught up with the Japan Foundation, Los Angeles webinar on Kami:

JAPAN AND KAMI 1: Kami Worship in Early Japan. You can now access it at any time on YouTube!

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BQpFeXS_0Sg

You can sign up for the next Kami webinar on the Japan Foundation website. Highly recommended.

Also watched Three Views of Manzanar on Youtube:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=araQR50tVjI>

Wish they had given a little more time to Ansel Adams, but it was only a half hour.

Caught a couple of hours at the West Covina Cherry Blossom Festival. Some of the performers were absent, perhaps due to the threat of inclement weather. My photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/WCCherryBlossom2025/index.html>

Nevertheless, there were plenty of attendees.

Visited the first half of Delicious Little Tokyo. My photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/DeliciousLittleTokyo2025/index.html>

Signed up for the the showing of Manzanar Diverted at the Natural History Museum. Couldn't make it since I wasn't feeling well, so instead I spent $6.99 and watched it online at Vimeo. Also found commentary with the filmmaker on Youtube from previous showings. Worthwhile tale of water rights in the Owens Valley, including the massacre of Native Americans and a California version of the Trail of Tears. After that White ranchers and farmers lost the water to the LA water projects. The the Japanese Americans were plunked down in the middle of the Owens Valley and LA was forced to divert some water to Manzanar, allowing a short green revival. Worthwhile watching.

While going to and returning from Mammoth, I stopped at Manzanar National Historic Site. Luckily it was open on the return leg. Check out my photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Manzanar2025/index.html>

Look for a photo with the hours open. Good progress with the Merritt Garden and the fruit tree orchards.

Also visited the Lancaster Cemetery memorial to the deceased Japanese of the Antelope Valley. The memorial was desecrated by super patriots during WWII, but was restored by school children in 2008.

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Lancaster2025/index.html>

On Sunday attended the Monterey Park Cherry Blossom Festival, which has really expanded.

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/MPKCherryBlossom2025/index.html>

I made it to the Bunka_Sai Festival in Torrance on Saturday. Very good entertainment.

My photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/BunkaSai2025/index.html>

I was at the Homestead Museum for the author's talks on the book, "Not Your China Doll" about the life of Anna May Wong. Good complement to the Anna May Wong exhibit at CAMLA since it give some more background information.

<https://www.notyourchinadoll.com/>

I made it to the Torrance Cherry Blossom Cultural Festival. The stage was moved to give the audience more room and the audience eventually turned up in spite of not very promising showers in the morning. A large assembly of food trucks provided a lot of options and there seemed to be more vendors than previously. For that matter it was one of the biggest turnouts I've seen for this festival. Entertainment was better organized and it kept my attention throughout the day. My photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/TorranceCherryBlossom2025/index.html>

I viewed the re-scheduled Golden Dragon Parade in LA Chinatown. My photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/GoldenDragon2025/index.html>

I made it to the morning performances at the Shoseian Japanese Tea House Cherry Blossom Festival. Some of my photos are at:
<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Shoseian2025/index.html>

I went to the Descanso Gardens to see a presentation on its connection to the Tuna Canyon detention centers. The camellia collection was purchased at sub-market prices from the Japanese American owned Star Nursery, one of whose owners was being held at Tuna Canyon at the same time. Previously, Descanso had claimed that it had paid market price. Some photos at:
<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/TunaCanyon2025/index.html>

Made it to the JANM to see Sessue Hayakawa in the Dragon Painter, plus a panel discussion. Some photos from the presentation:
<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Hayakawa2025/index.html>

Attended the Huntington Library lecture on Japanese Americans who violated the curfew before they were evacuated.

Visited the Huntington Gardens. Met a docent in the Chinese Garden who explained the relationship of Japanese Bonsai to Chinese Penjing which is more comprehensive and the predecessor. She also explained how the Huntington collection was donated by an aficionado. Fascinating. Lucky since it wasn't her normal day to volunteer. My photos of the visit at:
<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Huntington2025/index.html>

Made it to the 2nd PCH Lunar New Year Festival in Long Beach. My photos at:
<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/LBLunar2025/index.html>

Also went to the co-located Asian American Expo and Anime Impulse.
<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/AsianExpo2025/index.html>

Visited the Alhambra Lunar New Year Festival. Got there in early afternoon but caught some good entertainment. Photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/AlhambraLunar2025/index.html>

Also managed to listen to the Discover Nikkei Fest, SHARING INTERNATIONAL NIKKEI FAMILY STORIES webinar panel discussion while sitting in the Alhambra Library (and walking back to my car)

Also attended one of the Lunar New Year performances at the South Coast Botanic Garden. The ticketed performance was only wushu. There was a pop-up performance by the high school students that had a more general program, but I only caught the tail end of that since I didn't see it on the website.

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/SCBGLunar2025/index.html>

I made it to the Tet Festival in Garden Grove on Saturday but missed the parade, which was too early in the morning for me. Big event. Didn't stay for the evening events since I am a senior citizen. Photos at:

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/Tet2025/index.html>

On Sunday heard about the Arcadia Lunar New Year fundraiser for teaches who lost their homes in Altadena. Fun event with entertainment stages and vendors, even wine and beer.

<http://ikemi.info/Graphics2025/ArcadiaLunar2025/index.html>

Caught the tail end of the Japancraft21 webinar

<https://www.japancraft21.com/>

More successfully, finished reading

Japanese Agent in Tibet

by Hisao Kiumura

You can still find used copies on Amazon for $47+.

Japanese version of Seven Years in Tibet.

In fact, Dr. Kimura did run into Heinrich Harrer.

Highly recommended.

Watched the panel discussion of the Chinese Exclusion Act documentary on the American Experience. Next, have to watch the actual documentary.

<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/americanexperience/films/chinese-exclusion-act/>

My internet was out this past week so I had trouble virtually checking out the world. Did drive out to the Citadel Outlets on Friday to get to the top of their parking structure to get a 360 of the Basin. Looked very nasty towards Pasadena. Altadena is just beyond. Really bad smoke up there, as one might expect.

The Citadel looked like it was putting up decorations for Lunar New Year.

According to their website:

<https://www.citadeloutlets.com/event/Lunar-New-Year-Celebration/2145579234/>

they were planning on a celebration Feb 1-2. We will have to see if that is rescheduled.

When I was there ash was falling and some stores were closed.

Visited the Go For Broke Center and got a guided tour. Learned a few new things.

Checked out the outdoor Shogatsu event at the JANM but didn't go in since it looked too crowded for me.

Did attend the Shogatsu festivities at Weller Court today, including the ones noted above
