From APA Justice:
March 24, 2026 webinar, “Mass Surveillance and the ICE Crackdown: What the AAPI Community Needs to Know.”
A recording of the webinar is available here: https://www.youtube.com/watch? (1:04:32)
The webinar examined the intersection of mass surveillance and Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) crackdowns affecting Asian American and Pacific Islander communities. It featured Mayor Kaohly Her of St. Paul, Minnesota, alongside a panel of experts discussing current surveillance programs and their real-world impacts.

On April 1, the Supreme Court will hear oral arguments in Trump v. Barbara — a case that could overturn 127 years of precedent and redefine who gets to be an American citizen. You can listen to the oral argument live on Wednesday here.
C100’s “Equity Pulse” webinar brought together legal experts Wendy Feng, Arjun Shenoy, Tony Wang, and Jennifer Wu to break down what's at stake and how communities can prepare.
The webinar walked attendees through the history of birthright citizenship under the Fourteenth Amendment, the landmark Wong Kim Ark case of 1898, and what Executive Order 14160 would change — specifically targeting children born to parents who are not U.S. citizens. The discussion covered the role of amicus briefs filed in the case, the possible Supreme Court outcomes, and the real-world consequences for families, including challenges related to passports, federal benefits, and the risk of statelessness.
Watch the recording to understand the legal arguments, possible Supreme Court outcomes, and how organizations and families can respond. Communities that understand what's coming can mobilize, advocate, and protect their rights.

KCLS Author Voices: Kiku Hughes [recording]
Saturday, May 17, 2-3:30 pm PT
IN-PERSON or VIRTUAL
Join King County Library System and Densho at the Bellevue Library (or virtually!) for a conversation with Kiku Hughes, author of Displacement. Get an insight on the historical and personal impact that the WWII Japanese American incarceration camps have had, and the intergenerational issues they've left behind.
Watch the recording at:
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8kQ03HD7By8
I watched the original webinar back in May and I finally got around to reading my digital version of the graphic novel displacement. As the author acknowledges, the time travel structure is inspired by Octavia Butler. I thought it is one of the better fictionalized accounts of life in the camps.

Film Screening—"Third Act" at Hammer Museum (Los Angeles)
JANM is proud to present Third Act and Robert Nakamura retrospective at the Hammer Museum in Los Angeles on Saturday, April 11, 2026. Generations of artists call Robert A. Nakamura "the godfather of Asian American media," but his son and the director of JANM's Frank H. Watase Media Arts Center, Tadashi Nakamura, calls him Dad. As Parkinson's disease clouds Robert's memory, Tad sets out to retrieve his story—and in the process discovers his own.

Where I went the past weeks and may have heard of at the last minute (and before, since webinars are often still available online):

Still under the weather so didn't go anywhere.

Previously:

I watched the UCLA Asia Pacific Center webinar:
Out of Sight, At Sea: Migrant Labor and the Hidden Worlds of Global Seafood and learned a little bit about the questionable labor conditions under which our seafood is processed at sea. Staying away from fresh or frozen fish.

I made a trip to the Point Fermin Lighthouse and climbed up to the Korean Friendship Bell:
https://douglas-ikemi.smugmug.com/Point-Fermin-2026

I did make it to the Mercado La Paloma to see the pop up photo exhibit, Works of Light. Many of the photos brought back memories.

I also now have the photo galleries of the Huntington:
https://douglas-ikemi.smugmug.com/Huntington-Gardens and Bowers:

https://douglas-ikemi.smugmug.com/Bowers-Mid-Autumn-Festival-

When I visited the Huntington Gardens 2 weeks ago I took the guided tour of the exhibit This Land Is learned that part of exhibit featured the story of the Kuromi Family flower farm. You can also watch a video at https://www.huntington.org/watch-read-listen/videos-and-recorded-programs/los-feliz-flower-farm-kuromi-family-story
You can learn more about the other parts of the exhibit at https://www.huntington.org/exhibitions/this-land-is

I went to the Mid-Autumn Festival at the Bowers Museum which was very well attended. Missed the dance performances due to scheduling but did watch the Chinese tea ceremony and sampled some tea as well as listiening to the youth orchestra perform on traditonal instruments.

At the JANM Democracy Center I attended the panel discussion:

Unearthing History: Japanese American Resilience in Southern California Gardens

Unfortunately due to the acoustics I was only able to follow about half of the presentations, but I did learn a few things about bonsai and the Storrier Stearns Garden and Lotusland.

I made it to the Long Beach Buddhist Church Obon.

This event is getting bigger every year and the variety of food and refreshment available has increased, as well as the entertainment.

I've been on vacation and I'll try to mention more of the places I visited in the future.

I would like to mention my visit to the Lordsburg-Hidalgo County Museum where they had exhibits on the Japanese and Japanese American prisoners held there at the DOJ camp, which later became a POW camp. They gave me directions on how to drive out to the locationof the camp, but you can't go too far since what is left is on private property. I did buy a book there:
Confinement in the Land of Enchantment about confinement centers in New Mexico.
I was surprised to learn at the museum that there were still Japanese American farmers in New Mexico who were not confined and even employed POWs as laborers. More after I read the book.

I went to the Gardena Valley JCI for their Matsuri. Photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/Gardena%20Valley%20JCI%202026/index.html

I made it to part of the festival at the Huntington Library. JANM had a table. There was also a big Ondo/Fandango community dance among many other entertainments.
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/Huntington%20June%202026/index.html

I finally made it to a performance of Tam Tran goes to Washington by the East West Players at the Bellflower Library. Poignant story with a minimalist stage.

After that I dashed over to Sun Valley, detouring around the big fire, to see the Obon festival. My photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/SunValleyObon2026/index.html

I attended the lecture by sculptor Eugene Daub. Although he didn't discuss it in this presentation, he did create with Louis Thiele Quaintance works dedicated to the Japanese incarceration during World War II. Two similar sculptures are located in San Francisco, San Jose and Los Angeles. The latter is located at 1st Street and Judge John Aiso Street, 248 1st Street, Little Tokyo, Los Angeles, California, USA. Daub also created noted works depicting Civil Rights leaders.

https://eugenedaub.com/japan-town/#:~:text=A%20three%2Dpanel%20relief%2C%20triangular%20in,to%20the%20internment%20during%20WWII.

Also finished reading Lament in the Night by Shōson Nagahara, a collection of two novellas depicting the life of the Japanese Issei in the 1920s. Gives me some idea of the lives of my grandparents and what LA was like at the time. Available on Amazon.

Caught up with my reading. Did come across:

Learned about Dr. Mabel Ping-Hua Lee and her role in the women's suffrage fight.
https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/americanexperience/features/vote-not-all-women-gained-right-to-vote-in-1920/?utm_source=Iterable&utm_medium=email&utm_campaign=campaign_18009116&utm_Newsletter=American_Experience

You can also look her up in Wikipedia.

And Meteorologist Tetsuya Theodore "Ted" Fujita, also on American Experience
https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/americanexperience/features/mr-tornado-remarkable-mind/?utm_source=Iterable&utm_medium=email&utm_campaign=campaign_17931846&utm_Newsletter=American_Experience

Update, photos now available.
I've been on vacation for the last 2 weeks. Two notable stops were:

Bainbridge Island Japanese Exclustion Memorial. Photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/Bainbridge%20Japanese%20Memorial%202026/index.html

Weaverville Joss House.
Hopefully, photos next newsletter as well as some descriptions.
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/Weaverville%20Joss%20House%202026/index.html

Also visited small Japanese gardens with descendants of the Hiroshima tree.
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/Dallas%20Japanese%20Garden%202026/index.html
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/Douglas%20County%20Discovery%20Garden%202026/index.html

Traveled to San Diego and among other things visited the Friendship Japanese Garden.
Wow, it has really grown. My photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/SanDiegoJapaneseGarden2026/index.html

Also visted the Mingei Museum:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/Mingei2026/index.html
In my opinion, it has become the Mingei Restaurant with an upstairs gallery.

Went out to the Whale of Day festival at Pt. Vicente. Not much of AP relevance, but the interpretive center does have a couple of photos from the days when Japanese Americans farmed on the Palos Verde Peninsula.

Not too far from there at White Point was a Japanese American resort at one time. Just finished reading Lament in the Night by Shoson Nagahara. Some of the scenes in the novella take place at the resort, called the White Point Hot Spring Hotel, but often referred to as Radium Springs. Built in 1917 by the Tagami brothers, it was destroyed by the 1933 earthquake.

I attended Bunka Sai in Torrance on Saturday. My photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/BunkaSai2026/index.html
Very big and plenty of good entertainment.

On Sunday I visited the LA Times Festival of Books:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/FestivalofBooks2026/index.html
Very crowded. Saw a panel at the new Podcast Stage. Got to talk to author Naomi Hirahara about her two newest books, Evergreen and Crown City. I'll have to look into them since they take place on turf I know.

Crossed the street to check out Earth Day at the Natural History Museum:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/EarthDay2026/index.html

I attended both days of the ever growing Monterey Park Cherry Blossom Festival. My photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/MPKCherryBlossomSat2026/index.html
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/MPKCherryBlossomSun2026/index.html

I drove out on Saturday to the OC Japan Fair. Amazing how it has grown. This time allowed for how most of the entertainment is in the evening. My photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/OCJapanFair2026/index.html

I made it to the ever expanding Torrance Cherry Blossom Festival. This year I was smarter and brought a folding chair. My photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/TorranceCherryBlossom2026/index.html

I was going to participate in the local Westchester No Kings demonstration, but I dumped my motorcycle on the way back from the Native Plant Festival in Claremont. I should have just one to the demonstration that I saw in Claremont. It looked like a pretty big one. No serious harm to me, or so I think. Might as well post photos of the Native Plant Festival.
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/NativePlantFestival2026/index.html

Went to the San Gabriel Lantern Festival. My photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/SGLantern2026/index.html

I also went to the Studio Ghibli Ponyo exhibit at the Academy of Motion pictures:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/Academy2026/index.html

I did make it out to Tsunagi Matsuri at the JACCC courtyard. I got there late, but caught the tail end of the cosplay contest and a musical performance. It was very well attended.

I managed to finish the Firecracker 5K virtual walk and the 20 mile bike ride virtual ride. Down from the 10K and 50 mile last year. All for charity.

I made it to the very hot Saturday morning performances at the Alhambra Lunar New Year Festival. Looked like they had an interesting program but I was melting and I wanted to also go to the Gardena Valley JCI DOR. My Alhambra photos are at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/AlhambraLunar2026/index.html

I did make it to the Gardena Day of Remembrance program which consisted of a film showing and a panel discussion, both of which were very good.

Saturday I attended the Golden Dragon Parade in LA Chinatown. My photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/GoldenDragon2026/index.html

Sunday I went to the Huntington Gardens for their Lunar New Year. Could only get at 1PM. I had booked tickets 2 hours after they became available, and that's the best time I could get. Once again, I missed the Peking opera, but I did see the Korean dance performance.
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/HuntingtonLunar2026/index.html

I went to the South Coast Botanical Garden Lunar New Year Festival. I missed the performances which were sold out and I was too late for the pop up Palos Verdes High School, so my coverage was limited. Photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/SCBGLunar2026/index.html

I also drove to the UVSA Tet Festival at Golden West College:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/Tet2026/index.html

I went to and enjoyed the San Gabriel River Park Lunar New Year Festival. It eventually attracted quite a crowd for the small venue. My photos at http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/SGRiverParkLunar2026/index.html

From there I dashed to the JANM Democracy Center to the see JANM Book Club: The Poet and the Silk Girl with Satsuki Ina (mom) and Adrian Tomine (son). I was impressed enough to buy the eBook version.

I honored the national ICE Out strike on Friday and Saturday, but on Sunday I made it out to the Bowers Museum Lunar Festival. My photos at:

http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/BowersLunar2026/index.html
This festival was packed so I didn't catch all of it and I took a break inside the museum to see Global Threads. Originally I wasn't planning on seeing this one, but it turned out to be very worthwhile and I learned a lot. Highly recommended.

for information about the exhibit itself:
https://www.bowers.org/index.php/exhibitions/current-exhibitions/global-threads-india%E2%80%99s-textile-revolution and then dashed over to the first time ever Chino Lunar Festival for a few hours http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/ChinoLunar2026/index.html

This festival was organized by the same people who put on the Riverside and Rancho Cucamonga festivals.

Made it out to the Riverside Lunar New Year Festival. My photos at http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/RiversideLunar2026/index.html Included are photos of the historical Harada House which is undergoing retoration. For more info see the Wikipedia entry at https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Harada_House
Also photos of the Martin Luther King statue and memorial.

Also went to the Boyle Heights talk by Prof. George Sanchez at the Homestead Museum. Learned that Boyle Heights had a very diverse population at one time, including a lot of Japanees. You can read more in Sanchez's book:
Boyle Heights: How a Los Angeles Neighborhood Became the Future of American Democracy (American Crossroads) (Volume 59) 2021

Made it to the revived Shikishi exhibit at the JACCC on its last day. Kind of restrained compared to past exhibits, but I like some of the presentations and at least it is back.

Feeling cheap so I skipped the big ticket events and went to a couple of free ones that were new to me:

On Saturday I went to the Rancho Cucamonga Lunar New Year Festival. Nice event. My photos at:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/RCLunar2026/index.html

and then on Sunday I went to the LA Central Library where they had a small belated Japanese New Year evet:
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/LALibrary2026/index.html

Also gave myself a little tour of the library.

I made it to the belated JANM shogatsu celebration at the JACCC courtyard. A much welcomed collaboration made for a better venue and experience. Instead of the rain on the real Jan 1, we had a beautiful sunny day. Also took in the ikebana display; very convenient. My photos at:

http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/Shogatsu2026/index.html

I cut it short so I could zoom down to Torrance for their Lunar New Year Festival, in this case very early. I caught the tail end but did get to see and hear (in spite of a generator running very loudly) the youth orchestra. In a future without scheduling conflicts, I would like to experience more of it.
http://ikemi.info/Graphics2026/TorranceLunar2026/index.html

Happy New Year!

I used the rain as an excuse to catch up with my reading.
